LARGE AMOUNT WOOD IN TOYS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 16.—Some idea of the extent to which toy-makers made toys have been replaced in America by the home-made article is given by the estimate of the American Forestry association that close to 30,000,000 feet of lumber was used this year by American toy makers.

By adding the millions of toys made from this wood to the enormous quantity made of other material, the forestry association says some idea of the immensity of the industry will be gained. If the buying public will "look for the label" it adds, the foreign toys will be eliminated.

The main consideration which holds wood in its place as toy material is not cheapness, says the association, though that have something to do with it. Articles of large size would be too heavy if made of metal but many articles are made of wood because it is the best, prospective of cost or weight. Sticks are a good example.

7 DAYS WEDDED LIFE ENOUGH, GIRL SUES

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Seven days of married life was more than enough for Miss Esther Marie Dan, 17, former telephone operator. Through her attorney, Thomas F. Hines, she filed suit for divorce against Frank E. Daniels, painting contractor, said to have an income of $10,000 a year.

A study of her brief married life, Mrs. Daniels charges, would read as follows:

Sept. 20, eloped to Crown Point and married.

Sept. 21, husband returned home drunk and used vile language.

Sept. 22, husband came home drunk. Struck her in the face.

Sept. 23, husband came home drunk. At 1 a. m. he was walking about their room with a revolver in his hand.

Sept. 24, husband drunk again.

Sept. 25, still drunk. At 9 o'clock he was called to the telephone by a woman. His wife asked who it was. He replied, "My sweetheart," went out and returned at 3 a. m., very drunk.

Sept. 26, he was drunk again.

Sept. 27, again he was drunk.

Sept. 28, she left. Seven days was plenty.

Mrs. Daniels is exceptionally pretty. Her husband is more than twice her age. "They're right," she philosophized as she told her story to her attorney. "Rather a young man's slave than an old man's darling."
